MISCELLANEOUS.

BISHOP WHITAKER'S SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, RENO.

This School has been in successful operation for three years and a half, and has become well known throughout the State. From the time it was first opened until now no pains have been spared on the part of those who have it in charge to make it a

FIRST-CLASS SCHOOL.

Fully worthy the confidence of those who have daughters to be educated. And those efforts have been successful. It gives us pleasure to say that, although the number of scholars has at some times been larger than during the last term, the school is now in better condition than it has ever before been, and it is now more than ever before, worthy of patronage and support.

TEACHERS:

Miss Kate A. Hill, the first Principal, returned and resumed her position at the beginning of the last term, to the great satisfaction of every scholar, and friend of the School. Mrs. L. S. Graham has also returned, and with Miss Hill will hereafter be identified with the School. Miss Eva Quinlan, the teacher of music, is too well and favorably known to need any commendation from us. In addition to these the Rev. W. R. Jenney, Miss Julia St. Woodruff, and Miss J. E. Blanton, three thoroughly competent teachers have been employed during the past term. Addition to the staff of teachers will be made whenever the wants of the School may require it; but with thirty-five scholars, the number at present during the last term, six teachers are amply sufficient to do full justice to every scholar. While special attention is given to the ### Common English Studies.

And to the health and good manners of scholars, there is not wanting every facility needed for acquiring all the accomplishments of a ### Higher Education.

One admirable feature of the School is that lessons in Free Hand Drawing, Singing and Penmanship are given regularly to all the pupils without extra charge. -Collaboration and Physical Training also receive due attention. But the best feature of the School is that it is a Refined, Cultivated, Christian Home. It is in the formation of a pure womanly character in its pupils that its highest and most enduring influence is to be found. There are few who have been long connected with the School who do not show the effect of this influence upon their character and habits. The charges are as low as they can reasonably be placed.

$300 a Year

Pays for Board and Tuition in all the English studies. Books and Washing are charged at the actual cost. An additional charge is made for private lessons in Music, Drawing or Modern Languages.

The Next Term begins on Thursday,
January 8, 1880.

Letters of inquiry and applications for admission should be made to

NEW YORK'S GREAT MEN.

The Herald says they "have in New York at least six men who deserve to be ranked in a very high class—namely, Senator Conkling, Secretary Evans and ex-Secretary Fish on the Republican side, and ex-Governor Seymour, ex-Governor Tilden and Chief Justice Chase on the Democratic side. We may safely challenge any other State or any cluster of States having an equal population to show an equal list or to match it in point of capacity, experience and qualifications for public life. There is no one of these six who is not equal to the highest responsibilities with which his fellow citizens might think fit to clothe him. They differ greatly from one another in the cast of their faculties and although they are all bred to the law Mr. Evans surpasses the rest in professional reputation as much as he may fall below some of them in address and dexterity as a politician. Senator Conkling, the youngest of the number, has had the most signal and brilliant success as a public man."

EDMUNDS OF VERMONT.

The Eureka Republican pays the Senator from Vermont the following well deserved compliment:

Among all the Republican statesmen, until lately Senator Edmunds of Vermont has escaped to a great extent the detraction and vilification of the Democratic correspondents and press. The reason for this has not been the acknowledged purity of his character and his unimpeachable ability, but because it was understood that he was not and would not be a candidate for the Presidency. It has lately become known that there was a probability of his appointment to the Supreme Bench of the United States, and this has been enough to open the vials of wrath upon him. He is not what would be considered a genial man, but has always commanded the respect and confidence of his fellow Senators of both parties. He has been more intimate with Senator Thurman probably than any of the others. Aside from purely political questions, these two men, the best and purest representatives of their respective parties, have generally stood together. To Edmunds' able advocacy, more than anything else, the country is indebted for that wise measure known as the Thurman Railroad bill, which forced the Pacific railroads to make immediate and certain arrangements to pay their indebtedness to the Government. It is the custom, no matter what party is in power, in the Senate when a Senator is appointed to a position that requires confirmation by that body, to do so unanimously and without debate, an act of Senatorial courtesy. Should Senator Edmunds be appointed Supreme Judge that appointment would have to be confirmed by the Senate.

Concerning the sale of 50,000 shares of Central Pacific stock to a syndicate of Eastern capitalists, Governor Stanford said to an Alta reporter: "I do not know that the sale will cause any change of policy. The amount sold was not such as to vitiate any change in the control of the line. The stock was sold without any special object in view, but simply in accordance with the desire of the stockholders to put the stock on the market, and to enable them to sell at a fair price. The stock has been on the Board before, but I do not know that any was sold. I would like to see our own people take the stock and keep it at home. The road is in such a condition as to pay six per cent. per annum without any trouble. By dispersing stock into a number of hands there will then be a larger number of persons taking an active interest in the company."

FORGERY OF RAILROAD TICKETS.—For some time past the conductors on the Central Pacific and Union Pacific Railroads have had forged tickets passed on them, which it was learned were issued from the office of an agent of an Eastern railroad, located in San Francisco. Tuesday evening an Omaha detective arrested the suspected agent and lodged him in the City Prison over night. The next morning the detective took his man away, and it is believed is concealing him, to prevent the agent's friends from obtaining his release on a writ of habeas corpus before the full extent of his criminality can be learned.

A movement is on foot among certain moneyed men of Winnetka to sink an artificial well on the flat above town. Should the experiment prove successful, there is much rich land in the vicinity that could be reclaimed from the desert and cultivated.

It is an interesting fact that the United States publishes more newspapers, with greater combined circulation, than all the other countries of the world put together.

The House of Representatives is kept busy laughing at Horr and Cox. Sun-set has set his match in the gentleman from Michigan, and the two divide the "funny" business in Congress.

THE THIRD TERM QUESTION IN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

[By a Republican.]

The question of a third term was presented with great directness in many of the States in the campaign of 1874, and the people, with a positiveness that could not be misunderstood but now seems to have been forgotten, declared against it.

In 1872 General John A. Dix was elected Governor of New York by 51,825 Republican majority. He was renominated in 1874, and despite the advice of Thurlow, Weed, Whitelaw Reed and others, that he must positively prohibit any endorsement of Grant by the State Convention, Dix permitted the passage of the following resolution:

That the administration of General Grant has been distinguished for achievements in foreign and domestic policy unsurpassed in the history of the country.

No nominations were made by the liberal Republicans, but, under the direction of ex-Governor Fenton, they met in State Convention and resolved:

That we declare our uncompromising hostility to any pretensions toward perpetuating power in the hands of the same person beyond a second term; such pretensions deserve and should receive the indignant condemnation of the people.

A week or two later the Democrats met in State Convention and among other things resolved:

That the Presidency of the United States is a public trust, not a private perquisite, and there should be no third term of it.

On this issue Tilden, Democrat, and Dorsheimer, liberal Republican, were elected Governor and Lieutenant Governor by 50,317, making a change of 102,000 votes in two years, and seemed to indicate that so far as New York was concerned, the third term business had received "the indignant condemnation of the people."

In October, 1872, General John F. Hartranft was elected Governor of Pennsylvania by a majority of 34,368. One month later the same State gave Grant 130,000 for the second term; but at the State Republican Convention in 1874 Mr. Allison, then Grant's Register of the Treasury, offered this resolution:

That if General Grant be a candidate for a third term the Republican party of Pennsylvania would sustain him.

That resolution was vehemently opposed and Hon. O. J. Dickey, then the successor of Thad Stevens in Congress, said:

If General Grant desires a third term of the Presidency there is honesty and patriotism enough in the Republican party to stand by the precedent established by Washington. No man in this country ought to violate the example set by the Father of his Country. Should such a thing be attempted, the people with a unanimity with which they rush forward to save the Union, will crush out the man who dares to break down so wise a precedent. The people of Lancaster county are emphatically opposed to a third term.

The Democrats in convention hadn't sense enough to pass a resolution declaring against a third term, but even without it Allison's resolution did the business, for at the general election which followed John A. Latta, Democrat, was elected Governor by a majority of 4,678. The entire Democratic State ticket was elected, and for the first time since 1862 the Legislature was Democratic, electing Wallace, Democrat, to the Senate in place of a Republican, and thus the Republican party of Pennsylvania gave evidence of how it "would support him" for a third term.

The State Republican Convention of Ohio took no action either way in reference to the third term question in 1874, but the Democratic Convention of the State resolved:

That we have seen with alarm and regret the advocacy in influential quarters of the election of a President of the United States for a period beyond that which the traditions and usages of the country have almost given the sanction of a fundamental law; that such an election would be a long stride on the road to a protracted monarchy and personal despotism, and we are decidedly in favor of establishing the one term principle by an amendment to the Constitution.

In 1872 the Republican majority in Ohio was 34,268; but the third term issue in 1874 resulted in giving the State to the Democrats by a majority of 17,202, and thus by a change of 51,000 votes the people of Ohio declared in favor of the "one term principle."

THE RESULT IN OTHER STATES.

The third term question was not put with as much directness in other States, but it was the uppermost question in all of them at all political meetings and the result was the same as in the States named. In Illinois, General Grant had a majority of 66,420 in 1872; but in the election of 1874 the majority against the Republicans and a third term was 301,506—a change in two years of more than 86,000 votes.

7,032—a change of 81,000 votes in two years.

In the States of Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois gave an aggregate Republican majority of 883,000 votes in 1874, but on the issue of a third term for Grant in 1874 these same States gave an aggregate majority of 141,000, a change of 433,000 votes in two years, and due mainly to the opposition of the people to a third term of the Presidency.

THE SOUTH AND THE THIRD TERM.

Almost all the States of the South were Republican when Grant first entered upon the Presidency; they were all Democratic when he retired from the Presidential office. The Republican majorities by which Congressmen were elected from the South to serve during the first two years of Grant's term, were as follows: Alabama, 15,406; Arkansas, 3,248; Florida, 4,017; Louisiana, 7,183; Mississippi, 36,221; Missouri, 20,252; South Carolina, 34,742; Tennessee, 31,695. Total for the eight States, 152,864 Republican majority.

At the Congressional elections held in these States during the last year of Grant's term all of them gave Democratic majorities, except Florida and South Carolina, as follows: Alabama, 33,772; Arkansas, 19,414; Louisiana, 6,685; Mississippi, 56,853; Missouri, 58,048; Tennessee, 43,000. Florida gave 926 and South Carolina gave 870 Republican majority, which leaves, after deducting the Republican majority in these two States, a net majority of 216,576 for the Democrats, which seems to warrant the statement that under Grant these eight States of the South passed from the control of the Republicans to that of the Democrats, and that the latter gained 366,310 votes in these eight Southern States during Grant's two terms of the Presidency.

The same ratio of Republican losses and Democratic gains under Grant applies to every State in the Union.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

If any one will take the Congressional Record during Grant's terms of the Presidency and examine it carefully he will find that when Grant began his term as President there were 23 Republican and 7 Democratic Senators from the South, and that on the day he retired from the Presidency there were but 5 Republican and 27 Democratic Senators from the States of the South—a gain for the Democrats of 20 and a loss to the Republicans of 18 Senators.

During the first two years of Grant's term as President there were 170 Republicans and 67 Democrats in Congress, divided thus:—118 Republicans from all the States of the North and 52 Republicans from the Southern States; 40 Democrats from Northern and 27 from Southern States. Republican majority, 103.

During the last two years of Grant's term the Republicans had but 106 members in Congress—90 from the States of the North and but 16 from all the Southern States, while the Democrats had 187 members—97 from the North and 90 from the South. Democratic majority 81.

THE EX-PRESIDENT IN THE SOUTH.

[New York Herald.]

The four of the ex-President through the South shows that the third term idea is as unpopular in that part of the Union as it is in the welthier the more populous and the more influential section of the country. An omnibus load of politicians have, it is true, declared themselves in favor of a re-election, but the masses of the people of the Southern States have shown a degree of hostility to the project that cannot fail to convince the stalwart Republican wire-pullers that they are playing a losing game. When the ex-President, laden down with the honors of Europe and the East, arrived in San Francisco, the ex-Confederate colony in that city, as a mere matter of patriotic sentiment, accorded to him all the honor it was in their power to confer. They waited upon him with words of welcome and addresses of congratulation. At the time it was supposed, and very naturally, that they represented the popular sentiment of the States for which they had fought, and of the people from whom they had come; but the reception of the twice-elected President in the new and reconstructed South shows conclusively that the people of the Southern States are determined that the precedent of Washington shall be followed and that the unwritten article of the constitution shall not be violated. Since the ex-President crossed the Potomac he has practically passed into political oblivion. He has been honored as a great soldier, but the politicians with exception of a few unimportant demagogues, have resolutely set their faces against him. There is not the slightest probability that, even if it were possible that the Republican politicians of four or five of the great Northern States should eat their own words and give him a third nomination, he would carry the vote of a single Southern Commonwealth. The third termers can find no comfort down that way.

The Virginia Chronicle declares that the courses of the Journal are publishing a statement purporting to give some reasons why Grant was not pardoned, is of the same kind as have been floating concerning the Chantz case ever since the killing of Richard. The Journal answers that a responsible citizen of Carson was its informant, stating that Attorney General Murphy was the author, and further stated that the Chronicle did not publish both sides of the case. We should like to have the Attorney General give his reasons for voting No. We are as anxious as anybody to have him out of Prison, and we only published the item complained of as a matter of news, believing it to be true.

AT DONNER LAKE.

[Tribune Republican.]

Donner Lake is a sheet of glass, and has been for a week past. From early in the morning until midnight it is constantly echoing and re-echoing to the shouts and laughter of merry skaters. People have come from Rocklin, Oakland, San Francisco, Sacramento and from nearly all points along the line of the railroad to join in the sport. Every cutter and sleigh in the livery stable, and every team in town has been in constant demand taking people to and from the magnificent skating rink. And it is magnificent. The best skaters speed away to the head of the lake like birds skimming through the air, and report the skating superb throughout the entire distance, three miles. Boudies throw ruddy lights out over the ice at night, and in the day time the sunlight reflects with dazzling splendor from the snow on the overhanging mountainsides. Here and there on the lake the echoes are very grand. The scenery at all points is remarkable, not only on account of its natural picturesque quality, but because of the startling beauty of the winter drapery of snow and icicles. The road to the lake is excellent, and young and old pronounce the trip one of pure enjoyment. Dangling quadrilles on the ice cutting curves and flourishes—and names with their skates, singing glad choruses, and flying hither and thither on sleds drawn by the skaters, the scene on the lake either by day or night is so enchantingly interesting. All is life, gaiety and merriment; yet everyone ever visits the lake without forgetting the poor unfortunate party who perished at hunger and cold upon its shores. Every now and then the weird, mournful, hollow sound produced by the cracking ice comes rolling over the lake like the wail of lost spirits. This sound is peculiar to all large masses of ice, but when it starts the ear at night it is difficult at first to believe that it is not the moaning cry of those whose miserable death gave a name and a history to this ice-bound sheet of water.

The receipts from the Central Pacific Railroad Ferries during the year 1879 were $558,608 05.

of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and a weakening
